Highlights

AAIS 20th Annual General Meeting

The 20th Annual General Meeting of the Association of Aerospace Industries (Singapore) was held on 27 October 2022 at InterContinental Singapore. This was the first physical AGM since the pandemic with members glad to be back meeting face-to-face.

- The AGM kicked off with Opening remarks by President, Mr Wong Yue Jeen, highlights on the past year's activities by Honorary Secretary, Ms Lim Hee Joo, and an overview of financial performance for the past fiscal year by Assistant Honorary Secretary, Ms Yap Siok Leng.
- Members endorsed the FY2021/22 Annual Report and the audited Financial Report. Ernst & Young was reappointed as the Honorary External Auditor and Mr Paul Sandosham of Clifford Chance was reappointed as the Honorary Legal Advisor
- Mr Mark Loh, General Manager of Bell Textron Asia Pte Ltd was elected as a member of the Management Committee FY2021/23. This was to fill a vacancy left by Mr Kevin Chow of Thales Solutions Asia who had stepped down from the MC in August 2022 to take up a new role overseas. Members recorded their appreciation to Mr Chow and congratulated Mr Loh on the appointment.

In the second part of the programme, members heard informative presentations from

- Mr Chan Mun Wei, Programme Director of Sustainability on the AAIS Sustainability Roadmap;
- Mr Loh Wai Cheong, Senior Industry Transformation Advisor on the Jobs Development Partner (JDP) Programme;
- Ms Marlia Isnin and Ms Mathia Lee from Workforce Singapore on WSG's manpower findings, initiatives and programmes for the aerospace and aviation sectors.

AAIS thanks the event sponsor, Workforce Singapore, for their forthcoming and generous support, and all members for actively participating.

AAIS extends Collaboration with Performance Review Institute

The Association of Aerospace Industries (Singapore) and the Performance Review Institute (PRI) signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) on 27 October 2022 at the JW Marriott Singapore South Beach. This was the 4th MOU between the parties since 2008 – adding to 14 years of collaboration in providing and promoting aerospace special processes auditing, training, and personnel qualification programmes in Singapore.

We were also appreciative of the fruitful discussion with Mr Jay Solomond (Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer) and Ms Hannah Godfrey (Vice President of Professional Development) on the sidelines of the signing. We look forward to further development of the cooperation. View the Press Release for more information.

Take Part in the AAIS Industry Safety Week (14 to 18 November 2022)

OUR COMMITMENT TO SAFETY

AAIS INDUSTRY SAFETY WEEK

14 TO 18 NOVEMBER 2022

With a significant number in the workforce who are new to the industry, there is a need to emphasise and create greater awareness of aviation safety. Experienced professionals will also benefit from refreshers on safety with the ramp-up of operations.

AAIS, as a signatory of Singapore's charter for aviation safety, is pleased to organise a coordinated safety week for members of the aviation/aerospace community from 14 to 18 November 2022. We invite you to register to participate with a commitment to organise an internal aviation safety awareness campaign (an hour, day or week) during this period, in sync with others in the industry.

To support aviation safety awareness in your organisations and augment your internal efforts, AAIS will be sharing some materials including messages, videos, posters and others. We are also planning two seminars that will touch on the topics of aviation and workplace safety. If you are planning safety campaigns outside of this period, you are also welcome to register to receive the materials.

Recent Activities

Developing A Sustainable Air Hub in Singapore

As Singapore steps up its green ambition towards achieving net-zero emissions by 2050, the aviation industry has also been shaping strategies to ensure sustainability in recovery and growth. AAIS was pleased to hold this briefing on 2 November with Mr Daniel Ng, Chief Sustainability Officer and Director (Air Transport), Civil Aviation Authority of Singapore delivering a keynote on recommendations from the International Advisory Panel. Participants then heard another enlightening presentation by Ms Tan Yen Ling, Head of Sustainability and Strategic Projects at SATS who shared on the sustainability practices and initiatives being rolled out internally at SATS and its clients.

The presentations were followed by an engaging panel discussion moderated by AAIS Programme Director for Sustainability Mr Chan Mun Wei. We thank all participants for their active interactions, the speakers for their generous time and sharing and our event sponsors – inter airport Southeast Asia.

Visit by European Members of Parliament Transport Committee

AAIS was very pleased to host a delegation of the European Parliament's Committee on Transport and Tourism on 2 November 2022 at Seletar Aerospace Park. The delegation was visiting Singapore to explore innovative solutions in the transport sector. Led by Committee Chair MEP Jens Gieseke, the delegation visited AAIS and Skyports Drone Services. Chief Executive AAIS, and Sanjay Suresh and Koh Jia Le of Skyports briefed the delegation on the aviation and aerospace recovery, and development of drone services in Singapore.

Advancing WSH: New Code of Practice + Data-Driven Risk-Based Approach (Online)

This webinar features Mr Christopher Koh, General Manager of the WSH Council, who will be giving a keynote on the principles of the new COP and details on systems and culture to be implemented by directors to show full compliance with the WSH Act 2006. This will be followed by an insightful presentation on 'A Data-Driven Risk-Based Approach to WSH Management' by subject-matter expert Mr Lim Sui Soon. This promising approach encourages organizations to analyse the key causal factors of incidents (of all types) based on WSH data and focus mitigating efforts on high-risk factors.

Register by 16 November 2022, 3.00 pm, to gain access to this webinar (on MS Teams).
