Geo Connect Asia moves to June 2022

The organisers of Geo Connect Asia (GCA) have announced new dates for the show and conference, which had originally been scheduled for 23rd and 24th March this year. The event will now be taking place from 1st to 2nd June at the Marina Bay Sands Expo & Convention Centre in Singapore.

Montgomery Asia revealed the change of date on 27 January to "allow time for local event restrictions and international travel rules to gradually relax".

This will be the second edition of the flagship geospatial and location intelligence industry trade show and conference for Southeast Asia. GCA 2022 is expected to double in size in terms of participants and floor space. This year's show, which will be a largely in-person format, promises to bring together the latest innovations in surveying and monitoring equipment, sensors, robotics and mapping solutions, among others. GCA 2022 will also be highlighting geospatial applications within the construction and unmanned aircraft systems industry via its Digital Construction Asia (DCA) and Unmanned Aerial Vehicle (UAV) Asia tracks.
