MESSAGE FROM ASSOCIATION OF AEROSPACE INDUSTRIES (SINGAPORE)

MR WONG YUE JEEN

*President
Association of Aerospace Industries (Singapore)*

The Singapore aerospace industry has learnt valuable lessons from the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic. Companies took time to review their policies on business continuity and supply chain resilience, health and safety, and to drive innovation and business transformation. They expanded their capabilities, leaned out processes, reinforced safety and quality management systems, developed talent and pushed forward with digital transformation.

These efforts will help us respond to the demands from a recovery in air travel, with the industry exceeding pre-pandemic levels of output in March 2022. Over the coming months, air travel in the Asia-Pacific region is expected to continue its growth trajectory especially once lingering pandemic-related restrictions on mobility are further relaxed. Beyond recovery, Asia-Pacific is expected to chart the fastest growth for the air passenger market over the next two decades, buoyed by favourable income growth and demographics (IATA, December 2022). The prospects are exciting and significant, and the aerospace industry in Singapore is continuing to solidify its position as a leader in the region.

As the leading industry association, AAIS is focused on facilitating industry priorities such as sustainability, safety and supplier development. There is also strong attention on innovation and technology development, with initiatives aimed at advancing the application of robotics, automation, additive manufacturing, AI, electrification and IoT. We are also committed to talent development and student outreach, supporting collective efforts to invest in the next generation. To secure the long-term success of our industry, we are also actively facilitating and supporting various efforts towards greener aviation.

We are grateful for the support of government agencies and partners including the Civil Aviation Authority of Singapore (CAAS), the Economic Development Board (EDB), Enterprise Singapore, JTC Corporation and Workforce Singapore, all of whom play a crucial role in helping the Singapore aerospace community achieve our goals. Guided by strategic nationwide initiatives to cement Singapore as a global aerospace hub, such as the Industry Transformation Map 2025, the National Aviation Safety Plan 2022-2024, the Skills Framework for Aerospace and the Sustainable Air Hub Blueprint which will be released later this year, we are confident that the Singapore aerospace industry will soar to new heights.

With strong fundamentals and support, we are ready to take on the challenges and opportunities ahead, and to continue driving growth and success. We invite you to explore the diverse capabilities of the Singapore aviation and aerospace industries and find mutually beneficial partnerships and collaboration opportunities.

MESSAGE FROM CIVIL AVIATION AUTHORITY OF SINGAPORE

MR TAY TIANG GUAN
1 Deputy Director-General
Civil Aviation Authority of Singapore

2022 saw encouraging growth for aviation, following two difficult years due to the pandemic. In December 2022, passenger movements at Changi Airport reached 72% of Changi Airport's traffic in December 2019. Terminal 4 and part of Terminal 2 have resumed operations, adding much needed capacity to accommodate increased passenger traffic growth.

This recovery is underpinned by the resilience and strong collaboration among aviation stakeholders. Key aviation organisations have been working with the Civil Aviation Authority of Singapore (CAAS) to prepare for the safe and orderly ramp up of operations. In anticipation of manpower issues, many organisations and the Association of Aerospace Industries (Singapore) (AAIS) participated actively at CAAS' OneAviation Careers event in May 2022 which attracted some 11,000 job seekers and aviation enthusiasts.

Safety remains a top priority. Coming out of the pandemic, CAAS and close to 100 organisations signed the "Charter for a Strong and Positive Safety Culture in Singapore", a testament of our collective commitment to aviation safety. CAAS is grateful to be supported by AAIS and its members in raising awareness on safety culture and the Charter. We will continue to build a strong and positive safety culture with industry through various initiatives in 2023.

In April 2022, Singapore successfully underwent the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) Universal Safety Oversight Audit Programme audit and the Phase 2 ICAO State Safety Programme (SSP) Implementation Assessment, which affirmed the rigour of Singapore's safety oversight and management of its aviation activities. We also published the second edition of the SSP Document and the first National Aviation Safety Plan (NASP). Over the next triennium, CAAS will work with industry to implement the NASP safety actions to strengthen safety management and address key operational risks.

On the international front, CAAS expanded its commitment to strengthen civil aviation training and cooperation to help revive air travel, through memoranda of understanding concluded with ICAO and States from the Latin American, African, Caribbean and Arab regions. We also concluded agreements on aviation sustainability with New Zealand, the United States and ICAO, a technical arrangement for mutual recognition of aircraft maintenance approvals with New Zealand, and an agreement on urban air mobility collaboration with the European Union Aviation Safety Agency.

Going into 2023, CAAS will continue to engage industry partners to drive safe and sustainable aviation recovery, address operational risks and enhance safety culture. We look forward to working with AAIS and its members to strengthen Singapore's position as a resilient global air hub.

MESSAGE FROM SINGAPORE ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT BOARD

MR TAN KONG HWE
Executive Vice President,
Economic Development Board

In October 2022, the Future Economy Council (FEC) announced the refreshed Aerospace Industry Transformation Map (ITM) 2025, which underscored the Singapore government's continued commitment to support and grow this industry. Our plan aims to achieve S$4.6 billion in Value-Added (VA) by 2025, a 15% increase over the ITM 2020 target, and restore total employment to pre-pandemic levels by adding 3,000 jobs.

The global aerospace industry faced significant challenges during the Covid-19 pandemic, and Singapore was no exception. During those challenging times, the government provided strong support for the industry to preserve capabilities and a base of skilled talent. Partners like The Association of Aerospace Industries (Singapore) (AAIS) played a critical role in supporting our companies and provided valuable feedback to shape the government's response.

As global air traffic recovers and the aerospace industry turns a corner, these efforts have allowed the industry to bounce back quickly. From January to October 2022, production levels in our aerospace industry increased by 27.8% year-on-year. Industry players are also looking to fill about 3,000 new roles by the end of 2023 to capture new growth opportunities.

Going forward, we will continue to partner leading aerospace companies to build capacity and capability for manufacturing and maintenance, repair, and overhaul (MRO) to capture growth opportunities. To ensure our aerospace companies remain competitive and their capabilities are best-in-class, we will drive the transformation of their Singapore operations through technology, as well as forge partnerships with local Small and Medium Enterprises to develop new manufacturing and MRO technologies.

We also recognise the increasing scrutiny over the environmental impact by aerospace, and we will work with like-minded partners to pre-position Singapore for this shift towards sustainability. With this in mind, we are keen to build up an Advanced Air Mobility (AAM) ecosystem in Singapore, which will be an important entry point for new sustainability-related technologies like electrification. We will work to develop enabling infrastructure and regulatory frameworks for companies to trial, develop, and commercialise AAM technologies in Singapore.

We have weathered the downturn and the outlook for the aerospace industry is bright. Together with AAIS and industry players, we look forward to seizing the opportunities ahead.

MESSAGE FROM ENTERPRISE SINGAPORE

MR SOH LENG WAN
*Assistant Chief Executive Officer
Enterprise Singapore*

The aerospace industry may have been one of the most impacted industries during the past two years but as travel resumes around the world, we can anticipate a stronger recovery in 2023. Within the industry, Singapore enterprises support aerospace manufacturing and maintenance, repair, and overhaul (MRO) with services such as parts manufacturing, tooling machining, and specialised coating.

As the industry emerges from the pandemic, many companies have regained confidence in investing in new capabilities, such as turnkey and end-to-end capabilities, and technologies to serve both the local and the global markets. To help Singapore enterprises remain globally competitive, Enterprise Singapore (EnterpriseSG) will continue to support companies to develop innovative skills and new technological know-how.

The Association of Aerospace Industries (AAIS) has been a strong partner whom we work with to grow the local aerospace sector. Through AAIS, EnterpriseSG supports Singapore enterprises to showcase their solutions to the global market. With COVID-19 requirements lifted, Singapore enterprises exhibited at major trade fairs, such as the Singapore Air Show 2022, MRO Asia-Pacific 2022 and MRO Europe 2022. These trade fairs have brought them closer to the international crowd and created prospective commercial opportunities for the companies.

Besides traditional aerospace manufacturing and MRO businesses, Singapore enterprises are also venturing into emerging areas such as Unmanned Aircraft Systems (UAS), smart MRO, and airport technologies. With the support of AAIS, EnterpriseSG will scale up our efforts in building and shaping these ecosystems.

We look forward to fostering deeper partnerships with AAIS to champion industry growth, helping Singapore enterprises build the capabilities necessary to serve as certified suppliers to global aerospace firms and seize new opportunities in emerging areas.

MESSAGE FROM JTC

MR ALVIN TAN
*Assistant Chief Executive Officer,
Industry Cluster
JTC*

2022 proved to be a promising year for Singapore's aerospace industry. The return of the Singapore Airshow instilled confidence in the sector's recovery. Meanwhile, local productivity has exceeded pre-pandemic levels and demand for air travel has rebounded after nearly two years of restrictions. We look forward to many new and exciting developments in the aerospace industry and we are proud that many of them are set to be realised here in Singapore, at Seletar Aerospace Park (SAP).

In the past year, we completed SAP's newest development - JTC aeroSpace Three (AS3). Comprising nine factories with plug-and-play features, AS3 is designed to meet the increasing demands of aerospace companies by offering higher specifications such as increased ceiling height and floor loading, for installation of a wider range of high-tech machinery. AS3, combined with SAP's other ready-built facilities such as JTC Aviation One & Two, will continue to provide Singapore's growing aerospace community with ready-built space, catalysing growth for the industry. Companies can leverage on the shared facilities at JTC Aviation Two (managed by AAIS) which include serviced offices, multi-purpose meeting rooms for industry dialogues, as well as an indoor testbed facility for commercial applications of unmanned aircraft systems.

The adoption of sustainable aviation fuel (SAF) and developments in technologies such as electrification and hydrogen-based fuels reflect the industry's commitment to building a more sustainable future. We are doing our part by rolling out a new solarisation scheme which will allow companies in land-based facilities to adopt solar operations at no upfront cost. We are actively engaging our customers to join us on the sustainability journey.

The Association of Aerospace Industries (Singapore) (AAIS) has been a valuable partner and plays an important role in ensuring that Singapore's aerospace industry remains a vibrant and forward-looking community. We are working closely with AAIS in organising Aerospace Day 2023, where students can find out more about aerospace career opportunities through a day of fun activities, company visits and a dedicated aerospace career fair. We encourage all companies to take part in the 4th edition of Aerospace Day in April 2023.

As we look ahead, JTC will continue to work with AAIS and our industrial partners to ensure that the aerospace community continues to grow, and the country remains Asia's leading aerospace hub. I am confident that as we move towards a post-pandemic era, Singapore's aerospace industry will remain at the forefront of innovation, sustainability, and long-term growth.

SAFRAN IN SINGAPORE

Safran has an extensive footprint in Asia, employing nearly 3,500 people, and has operated in Singapore for more than 25 years in the aerospace and defense sectors. With 800 employees at five manufacturing, engineering and maintenance facilities in Singapore, Safran is a major player in local industry.

Safran is transitioning into carbon neutral aviation by 2050 with new engine architectures, sustainable fuels, hybrid electric technology, new materials and reduced weight. Safran aims to reduce the greenhouse gas emissions of its operations, production sites & value chain to achieve net zero carbon emissions. The Group plays an active role in the development of technologies for low-carbon aircraft. These aircraft feature ultra-efficient engines and aerodynamic designs, significantly reducing weight and offering full compatibility with Sustainable Aviation Fuels (SAF) and an optimised electrical power system.

Safran initiated plans on sustainability during the Singapore Airshow 2022 with the signing of the Global SAF Declaration Agreement with Airbus, Rolls-Royce and Singapore Airlines to further the adoption of SAF to reduce carbon emissions and to regularly increase their use over the next ten years. Since the launch of the Group's Low Carbon Plan in 2018, Safran entities in Singapore have hosted various initiatives such as annual innovation campaigns, information sessions and contests - in the aim of cutting CO2 emissions by 30% by 2025. Some of the low carbon initiatives we have implemented are: providing metal cutlery kits (thus reducing disposable cutlery usage), reducing facility energy consumption (eg. setting AC temperature at 25°C), installing an adapter on faucet to reduce water consumption, cleaning server storage (and avoid buying another server for storage), recycling & reusing items and installing solar panels in our office roof tops to provide 50% of our electricity needs. These immediate actions are mandatory as collective changes require the involvement of every employee. Through these behavioral changes and adoption of good practices, we aim at sustainably changing aviation to build the world of tomorrow.

SINGAPORE UNIVERSITY OF SOCIAL SCIENCES

Overview

Singapore University of Social Sciences (SUSS) is a university with a rich heritage in inspiring lifelong education and transforming society through social sciences. We develop work-ready graduates and work-adaptive alumni to their fullest potential through our 3H's education philosophy – 'Head' for professional competency with applied knowledge, 'Heart' for social awareness of the needs of the society, and 'Habit' for passion towards lifelong learning. The university offers more than 90 undergraduate and graduate programmes, available in full- and part-time study modes which are flexible, modular and inter-disciplinary, catering to both fresh school leavers and adult learners. To date, over 44,000 graduates have experienced SUSS' unique brand of education and each year, over 21,000 students are pursuing their full- and part-time studies with the university. Eligible students taking SUSS undergraduate programmes enjoy government tuition grants or subsidies, and have access to financial assistance schemes including scholarships, bursaries and tuition fee loans.

About School of Science and Technology

The School of Science and Technology (SST) is multidisciplinary in nature and offers a wide range of degree programmes that includes Infocomm Technology, Digital Media, Aerospace Systems, Biomedical Engineering, Electronics Engineering, Human Factors, Facilities and Events Management, Building and Project Management, and Mathematics. The combination of high-quality curricula and dedicated teaching staff offers students a well-rounded education that enhances their knowledge and learning in science and technology, as well as provide them with greater opportunities to develop intellectually and professionally and expand their range of career paths.

BEng Aerospace Systems

The SST's Bachelor of Engineering Aerospace Systems is accredited by the Engineering Accreditation Board (EAB), Institution of Engineers Singapore (IES). Through this accreditation the BEng Aerospace Systems is recognized internationally following the Washington Accord.

The BEHAS programme provides a firm grounding in aerospace engineering (material, structure, aerodynamics, control, propulsion, design), avionics systems and aviation management. It is designed for individuals aspiring to excel in the aerospace industry as well as for those who are keen on enhancing knowledge, skills and understanding of aviation. Rigorous academic training in analytical, computational and system design skills also enables our graduates to find their career path in non-aerospace industries such as robotics, ground transportation, automotive, mechatronics, and software companies.

Our approach towards education has always hinged on the philosophy of "learn today, apply tomorrow". And this is only possible because our teaching staff are in touch with the cutting edge of the industry. We collaborate with industry and engage many of their senior management to develop and teach in our courses, exposing the students to the best practices in the industry within the classroom.

In addition, our partnership with a world renowned aerospace academic institution, Cranfield University, together with our local industry partners such as ST Engineering Aerospace and Republic of Singapore Air Force ensures that our curriculum stays relevant to the industry.

A Primer on Aerospace and Aviation at Cranfield University, U.K.

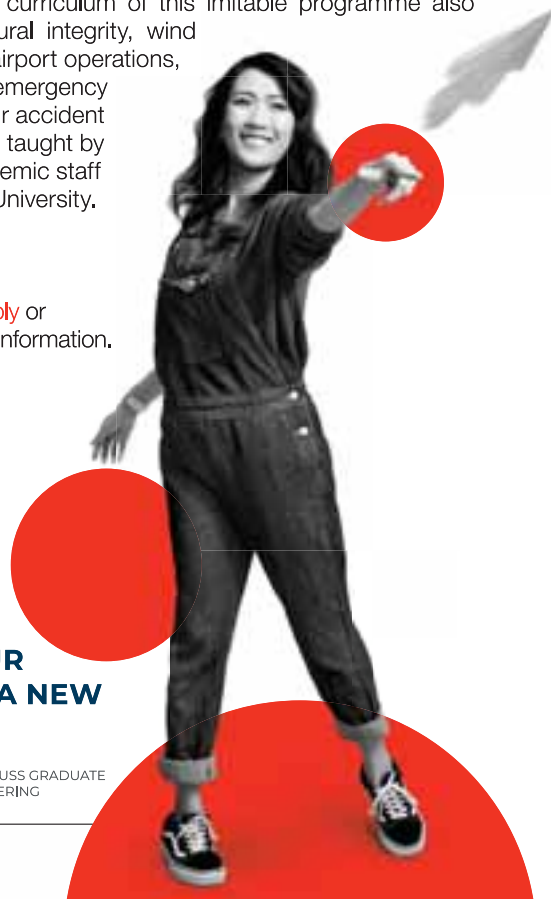

This five-day, full-time course conducted in Cranfield University is a unique course embedded in our programme which essentially provides a level of exposure not commonly featured elsewhere: Students take flight laboratory in an airplane to learn how to evaluate flight performance and dynamics. The curriculum of this imitable programme also includes structural integrity, wind tunnel testing, airport operations, accident and emergency handling, and air accident investigation, all taught by renowned academic staff from Cranfield University.

THALES IN SINGAPORE

Thales is recognised as a key partner for aerospace solutions, providing avionics and in-flight entertainment (IFE) systems on board world-renowned airlines in Asia Pacific. Established in Singapore since early 1980s to support Airbus Group's expansion in the region, our aerospace activities in Singapore today include Maintenance, Repair and Overhaul (MRO) for commercial avionics and IFE equipment, and production for commercial avionics.

Avionics Production

We manufacture key systems for the Airbus A320, A330, A350 families and Boeing B787 fleets including flight control computers, displays and electrical systems – all supplied to customers globally from Singapore.

Avionics Services

Our Avionics suite (Topflight Flight Management System, Low Range Radio Altimeter, Satellite Communication, Traffic and Collision Avoidance Systems, Terrain Traffic Transponder Collision Avoidance System) is widely selected and trusted by carriers around the world. Notable selections in the region include the campaign of 234 A320 in 2015 by Lion Air and 304 A320 in 2017 by AirAsia.

Avionics and IFE Maintenance, Repair and Overhaul (MRO)

From Singapore, we provide a wide range of support and services in the regional civil aerospace market – from maintenance services and parts distribution to standard exchanges, access to spares pools, pre-owned equipment trading and full component availability packages.

In 2017, we expanded our Singapore avionics facility, consolidating all avionics production and MRO activities under one roof for better synergies and process optimisation. Annually, over 40,000 pieces of equipment are repaired locally, making Singapore Thales Group's largest centre for avionics maintenance and repair services worldwide.

In 2018, we were engaged by Airbus as a subcontractor for avionics components repair in Asia-Pacific, with all repairs being carried out locally.

In-flight Entertainment

We make connected IFE simple, seamless and secure, enabling best-in-class onboard experience for passengers of renowned airlines in the region including Singapore Airlines (SIA).

SIA selected our AVANT IFE system and Ka-band connectivity solution for its medium-haul A350 XWB fleet in 2016, and subsequently our FlytCARE maintenance services in 2018 where we service and support the IFE and connectivity systems through a turn-key maintenance programme in an agreement with SIAEC.

Since then, we have collaborated closely in areas of digital innovation.

In partnership with Airfree, we supported SIA's digital ambitions with the launch of the world's first onboard e-shopping experience via KrisShop in 2021. The solution provides comfortable luxury shopping experiences in the air and streamlined delivery processes for passenger convenience.

Our Commitment to Health, Safety and Environment

We have a committed Health, Safety and Environment management system that is based on a continuous improvement approach. This has led us to certify in accordance with ISO 14001 and ISO 45001.
